

XM radio is the same as cable and should be able to offer local weather and traffic reports. This action is just another attempt by big business to get competition out of the way. Leave the system that works and people pay to use as it is.

If the competition offered a music and news system that I wanted to listen to I would. Perhaps they should take an inward look and see why people are turning to alternative sources.